

Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Wednesday 24 Nov 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Cloud and some rain moving southeast. Turning colder tonight.

Today:

Some early sunny spells in the southeast of the region will soon fill in as a band of cloud and patchy rain moves southeast. Clearer skies reaching the north late afternoon, bringing brighter but colder weather. Breezy to start. Maximum temperature 8 deg C (46 deg F).

Tonight:

Cloud and patchy rain in the south will soon clear, leaving clear spells with frost possible. Cloud increasing later, with showers on coasts. Wind strengthening. Minimum temperature 0 deg C (32 deg F).

Thursday:

Cold and windy on Thursday with blustery showers on coasts. Some sunny spells, especially inland, but often cloudier towards the coast. Maximum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:

Conditions turning very unsettled Friday and Saturday with gales, rain or showers, these wintry at times especially on hills. Winds easing through Sunday, with showers continuing on coasts. Feeling cold.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.